OUR REPRESENTATION. the Thursday we reviewed briefly the exand 'ary remarks of the Colonial Secretary man . Finlayson on the Franchise Bill. Legi'the questions that enter into the areaa stor5lic discussion none approaches in imhance this grave one of Parliamentary representation. On it hangs virtually the freedom or servility of a population, the prosperity or destruction of a community. It has in all ages engaged the greatest minds of every representative country, and is at the present moment receiving the most profound consideration in the British Parliament itself. It is natural, therefore, that in Vancouver Island where, with all our backwardness and isolation, we have still something in common with the inhabitants of every self-governing ountry, the matter should awaken some degree of attention, albeit there are degenerate Britons amongst us base enough to relinquish at any time every vestige of those privileges which have only come to Englishmen through the hard and persistent fighting of their forefathers. In our last review of the question we characterised the language and proposition of Mr. Young as belonging to an age very far back in English history, but in that we only implied the resuscitation of ignorant barbarism; there is a much worse feature in the case; there is the evident attempt to prevent, in the most important election which will have been held on the Island, the popular voice from being heard-to stifle in fact every public aspiration at the first general electoral contest. This is not all. Mr. Young is a paid official, and as much a public servant, no matter from what source his salary comes, as any clerk in the Government offices. The idea, therefore, of this gentleman presuming to tell the public of Vancouver Island that they shall not elect this class of men or that class of men but only such a class of men as he (Mr Young) and his friends shall dictate, is to say another step farther and allow the Cololation which deserves especial mention-he is calling upon the Upper House to raise the qualification of the Lower House-to under-

refused to accede to the proposition of the Lower branch to remove certain restrictions in the representation of the country, but the history has yet to be written that will show the Upper House, in the face of a measure before it to abolish the property qualification for members of the Assembly coming forward and proposing to double it. It has been customary in the Government of Vanconver Island to set every precedent, every experience of other countries at defiance and follow some wretched little tortuous policy of its own-and it is to this mulish stupidity we are indebted for nearly all our disastersbut we think this attempt of Mr. Young to start another original idea-to repudiate the policy of other and more enlightened countries-will not meet with general acceptance. The Colonial Secretary, however, and some of his saintly colleagues, are horrified at the want of respectability in the Assembly, and with true patriotism desire to reform it,their shout is taken up by some scribblers in the press, and any number of Mrs. Partingtons are ready with their mops. It is not the first time, however, we have seen a dirty house-maid endeavoring to give a polish to a door step, and the parties who have been recently crying so lustily against the Assembly's respectability ought really to look a little nearer home and put on less of the infallible. There have been, are, and will be probably to the end of time, men in Houses of Legislature who cannot pay their debtsthe House of Commons being no exception to the rule-but raising the qualification is no remedy for the evil. A man can fail on Vancouver Island with $3000 worth of property just as casily as he can with $300. In fact, some of our extensive landholders have not only failed but become "skedaddlers." The real question of respectability is, how ever, not for the Upper House but for the electors to decide. If the people choose to send to the Assembly an unfit man, that is their look out. They and they only are atfeeted by the result. But to say that the public's hands shall be tied, and that instead of sending to the Legislature men of their choice, they shall be forced to select some superannuated mummy who has neither the brains nor the capacit

to work, is to insult the manhood of every person in the colony. The people of Van-cover Island want no dictation as to the person or class of persons that should represent them. When they desire to return dancing masters, or prim old maids, or studiers of deportment to make laws for giving an impetus to the industry of the Island, they will

BRUISH COLONIST It point to a starched coliar, a lackadaisical ir, or general Dundrearyism. The respectability which they want is the ability Assembly to get the colony out of its present disgraceful "Slough of Despond," and if they can find that ability in the "greasy mechanic" or in the retail dealer, let them in Heaven's name have the opportunity of sending it, whether it has been investing in real estate or moleskin pants, where it is so much re-

How many ladies of limited means could dress better could they SAVE THE PRICE OF THE MAKING OF A DRESS, which they can do by the use of these MODELS; and how much useless anxiety would be saved by the wealthy and most fastidious were they certain that the dress being made would fit to please them. Mr. Rieg said he came before them to thank them for the election of Mr. Stamp.

Mr. Howard—Why, you wanted to run against him. (Laughter.)

Mr. Ring came there to thank them for returning Mr. Stamp. He was a man who had a large interest in the country, and would, ho bolieved, endeavor to retrieve the disastrous policy of the present Assembly. One of the last things Sir Robert Peel did was to remove the duies on the necessaries of life; and yet here they had the Assembly taxing eatile, than which nothing could be more injudicious. Mr Ring then went on to show that the safety of the Empire was endangered by the action of some of the members of the Assembly and doctored that Faulish canital Thorold, C. He would not say the paper told ites, but it was very far from the truth (laughter): in fact, as far as it usually is in everything it publishes (laughter). Mr. Southgate had told him (Mr. Rothwell) that to Sir Thomas Maitland, and him alone, was due the merit of the project. Mr. Rothwell then made some humorous allusions to local matters and retired.

Most people can enjoy a practical joke, but this is carrying things too far. The concocter of the scheme might possibly have put Mr. Ring to the expense of contesting the town with Mr. Stamp. Fortunately the plot was discovered at the oleventh hour, and Mr. Ring, instead of coming forward to oppose Capt. Capt. William H. Mouat was sworn and examined by the Chief Justice.

I am a master mariner and chief trader in the Hudson Bay Co. I was postal agent under a commission from His Excellency the Governor. I have no Trinity house certificate. I have not passed an examination at Trinity House. I was brought up to the sea and served three years as an apprentice, and since then as an officer. I was made a master in 1850. I left this port for San Francisco on the 3rd March, and arrived there on the 8th, and commenced alterations to the value of about $24,000. I was ready for sea on the 14th of March. I had about 60 tons of cargo on board. I do not recollect there being any ironware amongst the cargo; I had one bag said to be letters and about 50 or 60 bags of newspapers, for which about 50 or 60 bags of newspapers, for which I gave a receipt; I had instructions from Mr. Young, Colonial Secretary, that I was to boats against the wreck, so this boat did not go alongside; I saw the ship sink at 8 minutes past 8 a.m. about 8 minutes after I left her. The ship had been settling from day light; she sank in what was said to be 30 fathoms water about 4 or 5 miles from shore. We landed at the south part of Point Reyes. After seeing the boats hauled up on the beach I left in search of the telegraph office. Messrs. Wells, Fargo had an express on board not under the special charge of any person; their letters were saved in the fishing boat; their newspaper bundles were bulky and were lest I think; I took these letters out of my room; they were in small cauvas get the mail sorted before I arrived bere. et the maif sorted before I arrived bere. His Honor—Have you the instructions? Witness produced written instructions. His Honor—These instructions are most Cyplict.

Witness—I had 93 passengers, 23 cabin, 47 steerage, 13 soamen for the Princess Royal; my own-crew numbered 33, (witness agreed to lurnish names of passengers and crew to the court) I was master, Mr Chambers chief efficer, engineer Mr Elliott, 2nd do Mr Stephens, 3rd do Mr Ross, 2nd officer Mr Smith. We started at about 6 p. m. on the 14th March; The vessel before leaving and after repairs, was not swung to adjust her after repairs, was not swung to adjust her compasses; I don't think it is usual to do compasses; I don't think it is usual to do so in the merchant service with a wood built vessel; In the navy I believe it is invariably the rule to swing the ships, whether wood or iron; I have never awung a ship to adjust compasses before going to sea; I think as a measure of precaution it would be better to do so. I had 2 bower, I stream, 2 kedge and 3 boat anchors on board; two bower chains of 100 fathoms each; from 30 to 45 fathoms of stream or mooring chain; the position of the nuchors or chains had not been changed; the steering apparatus had been changed; the steering apparatus had been shifted from dead aft to the fore part of the hurricane deck; the ship's compass was paratus to the pilot house in front of the steering wheel; the anchors and chains on deck were in the usual place, in the bows about 40 feet from the compass; when the compass was dead aft, the distance would be 160 feet; I should not think that the shifting of the compass would alter the deviation, the distance from the anchors and chains being so great, and there being other iron work used for securing the pilot house nearer; that, with the quantity of iron nails in the pilot house and the wheel chains, all of which had been placed there in consequence of the alterations, might cause a paratus to the pilot house in front of uence of the alterations, might cause a eviation; I don't think the caboose would deviation; I don't think the caboose would affect the compass, it was too far aft; it never occured to me, after these afterations that might affect the compass, to swing the vessel; I do not know that she ever was swung; I had the compasses in use at the time we got ashore, there were eight compasses for certain or board, two were in front of the wheel and were subject to the same influences, the third was in the captain's room about 12 feet further aft, and was not used at all by the belmsman; practically for the purposes of the voyage the two compasses in the wheel house were alone used, unin the wheel house were alone used, unchecked by any other; I observed about half a point difference between the two compasses and the third one, about half an houralter we got clear of the head; I did not observe it before, until I discovered this I had not looked to see whether there was any deviation; I attribute that deviation to the iron work in the pilot house, especially the wheel chains which were about two cwt each; I made an allowance of half a point for the deviation when I discovered it; I began to law my course at about 7, after began to lay my course at about 7, after passing the Golden Gate and clear of the sands; the deviation would place the vessel's sands; the deviation would place the vessels head in shore, and the tendency would be to place the vessel on Point Reyes, where I finally ran ashore; after the vessel had struck I compared the three compasss with another in the main saloon in after part of the believe to the likely to be effected by another in another in the main sation in arise part of the ship, not so likely to be affected by local attraction, and found that all three were in error; I placed this 4th compass on the table in order to see if it would agree with the other compasses, there was a point and a half difference between this compass

Part of the crew consisting of the Engineer, Chief mate, and others, proceeded to San Francisco in the fishing boat; the agents telegraphed that they had already heard the news; I left that they had already heard the news; I left by steamer and reached San Francisco on Monday afternoon the 16th; on the 17th I entered my protest before the British Consul; I Protest produced] the protest was read over to me; the Acting Consul asked me the questions and the clerk wrote my replies from memory; the log book was unfortu-nately lost; the mate had charge of the log book, he may have trad to save it but be book; he may have tried to save it but he had to save his own life; I managed to save had to save his own life; I managed to save some of my own papers but not at first. (His Honor here compared the courses in the Protest with the Captain's evidence and found that they corresponded). There was a man on the watch on the forecastle and I was looking out myself; I don't know the man's name; the weather being so thick and the compasses having misled me I did not know whether I had struck on the N. W. Farallones or on Los Reyes, and could not tell how tosteer. I find also that a comparison of the binnacle compacs on deck and one below deck in the cablin was made by Captain Mouat after the ship was got by Captain Mouat after the ship was got off, and that there was a difference of one noint and a-half in the two compasses; to which I attribute the loss of the ship. The weather being thick the courses steered by binancle compass as shown in protest should have given a good offing, say five or six miles. I think the captain entitled to great credit for the masterly manner in which he handled his ship after striking, and saved his passengers and crew, which is a rare thing on this coast. Alexander John Chambers, sworn—I was chief officer of the Labouchero when she left San Francisco at 6 p.m. on the 14th of April; I agree with the captain's statement as to the character of the alterations made with a little addition, viz., that the ship had not been fully rigged on leaving port, also that a new main must bad been put in; no sails were heat but, one; this made, a difference were heat that one; this made a difference and the control of the control were bent but one; this made a difference because after the engines ceased to work, had the ship been fully rigged and the sails all bent and set with the strong breeze then all bent and set with the strong breeze then blowing the ship could have been beached at Drake's Bay instead of allowing her to sink where she did, and the ship and cargo would have been saved. As to the course sterred I relieved the deck at 7:30 and went to the pilot house, not having received any orders as to how the ship was to be steered I asked the man at the wheel had the captain given him orders how to steer? The man said he was to steer W. Captain Mouat then entered the pilot house and told me he had desired the man to steer W. V. remarking that W. by the pilot house and told me he had desired the man to steer W., remarking that W. by N. ½ N. was the proper course, but to make sure he was keeping her W. I was relieved about 8:15 by James Smith, I cautioned him about the man at the helm not making allowance for the helmsman, for the compass being a little to the right, which would make a difference of about a quarter of a point; I went below, and about 10 o'clock was roused out by urusual orders; heard the yards on to bale out; reported state of water in the hold to Captain Mouat, remarking as

His Honor—It was very right and proper to take charge of the women and children, but was it not your duty, as chief officer, to stay by the captain and ship?

Witness—I was left to act as I thought proper; in fact, I seldom got orders from the captain at all. He generally left me to do as His Honor—What was?

Witness—That he snubbed me.
His Honor—Can you give any reason for

Witness could not, but said that there had been coolness gradually arising between him-self and the captain, which had grown to ill feeling. A statement signed by engineers and crew, that witness had done his duty, was handed in, and a letter addressed to deptain Mouat, calling upon the latter to retract a charge of desertion made before the Consul, and stating that witness would other wise be compelled to make an honest public statement of the whole affair was read and explained. It was not intended as a menace, but in order to clear himself with the public. If witness adds: I had a statement ready to publish, but did not do so; I am now on k oath and am compelled to state all that I know; I should not have voluntarily made any statement reflecting on Captain Mouat's judgment or conduct, but I do not think there was a single seaman on board that will was handed in, and a letter addressed to there was a single seaman on board that will saved by being beached; I should say it was saved by being beached; I should say it was searcely good seamanship to go to sea without swinging the ship to adjust the compasses, at the same time forty-nine out of fifty would have done the same thing.

THE TEETH.—A very comprehensive little treatise on the teeth has just been forwarded to us by the well-known dentists Messrs. Gabriels. Adopting the lan uage of the preface we may say that in this somewhat pretensious age, at a time when publications of this kind are numerous, a short, unassuming treatise emanating from a firm of long standing containing nothing but that which is immediately to the purpose, will not, we believe, prove unacceptable. The little work contains many valuable hints which will be found eminently useful for the allevation of the miseries of toothache, until the more substantial aid of the professed dentist can be procured. Extract from "Cumberland Pacquet," 2nd January, 1864.—As may be seen by our advertising col-mas, Messr. patented system, irrespective of distance of climate.

GABRIEL ON THE LOSS AND RESTORATION OF THE TEETH.—The above is issued by Messra. Gabriels, the eminent London dentists, and as it is written by men who have a high standing in their profession, the work is well worthy the perusal of all who value the preservation of their teeth and wish to guard against the many and tormenting evils to which those useful members are subject. Many valuable hints are given throughout the book as to the various means of preserving the teeth and gums in a healthy condition, and of arresting in many cases permanently the progress of decay which may have already set in. The little work is evidently written by men of long experience in their profession, and who are thosough masters of their subject, and as such may be honestly recommended. Extract from the Monas Herald, January 2.2d, 1864. As may be seen by our advertising columns, Messrs. Gabriel supply Teeth on their patented system, irrespective of distance or elimate.

person; their letters were saved in the fishing boat; their newspaper bundles were bulky and were lest I think; I took these letters out of my room; they were in small canvas cover bags and were in the safe in my room; I did not receipt for them; the mate might have done so; I kept the key of the safe; H.M. mails were in the lazarette; they were not locked up when lost; Wells, Farge pay nothing except freight on their parcels; if valuable, at a per centage; no freight was charged upon these being so small; no freight is charged for their letters; I have never charged any nor received any gratuit; we carry their lotters understanding that it we do so they will give us the benefit of any freight they may have to send. I am not aware that there was a Navy mail on board, although it is probable that there was one, as the Southern steamer had arrived at San Francisco before we left. If on board it would be in the lazarette, which it was intended should be locked; I had no way bill whatever describing the mails; the reason why the newspaper bags were placed in the lazarette was because they were so numerous that there was a proom for them in the cabin; I asked the Consul to keep the last letter mail separate from the accumulated mails, but they all came down at the last moment and in the hurry of departure they were all placed in the lazarette; there were about 4 letter bags; the letter bags might have been placed in my drawers where I placed the largest of Wells, Fargo's packages; they could not go into my safe; I only had a small package belonging to Wells, Fargo & Co in my safe which was said to be valuable; we had a room made especially for the mails but the paint was not then dry; these bags had they been in the drawers might have been saved, but I must add that I was taken out of the ship by two men by force while trying to save property; jit was so close a run as that. The lazarette was under the ladies' cabin, entered by a hatchway; there was a carpet over it; my cabin was on the hurricane deck; I cannot say was a carpet over it; my cabin was on the burricane deck; I cannot say that there were any lives lost; two men are missing who paid for their tickets and have not come who paid for their tickets and have not come to have their money returned as steerage passengers; one man's name was Marshall, the name of the other I don't know; I asked those on board but none could say for certain that these two men were lost; they were in doubt about it and could only say that they were missing; the crew were all saved; the Steward, Soott, will know something about Marshall, having travelled with him bout Marshall, having travelled with his about Marsball, having travelled with him before; very little passengers' luggage was saved, what was saved was by the ship's company, by the last boat; Marsball was a coloted man, he was coming to Victoria, I consider that the whole of the passengers and crew were in danger of their lives when they left as the ship was sinking; I left after landing at about 10 o'clock in a buggy for San Rafael, but altered my mind and went to Petaluna whence I tolegraphed in the and a half difference between this compass and the two steering compasses; the deviation being in the same direction. My course, when I laid out my course, was south west by south by compass. That is not the usual course for a heavy ship drawing more water than we did; mine was not a heavy ship, she was drawing 11 feet 2 in. even keel. I call a vessel drawing 16 feet a heavy ship; she would I imagine steer two points more to the south; south-west by points more to the south; south-west by outh was not my true course, it was west outh-west, I took the former course to get south-west, I took the former course to get her off shore on account of thick weather, It was blowing hard from south-west and very thick. I did not see the buoy on the 4 lathom bank; I intended to pass it in-shore; I steered south-west by south for an hour; at about 8 30 I altered my course to west south west by compass. She was going about 7 knots an hour, (Lt. Townsend was roused out by unusual orders; heard the engine bell ring, and immediately the ship struck what I supposed to be another ship; went up on the hurricane deck; saw Capt. Mount go to ring the bell and told him the ship was backing on a reef and close to it; I advised him not to get excited; I was not so; received his orders to rig the hand pump in officers' meas room; did so and saw the force pump aft rigged; the after pump and the pump was the pump and pump and the pump and not threw any water; then went forward and was employed in finding gear for the main was employed in finding gear for the main deck pumps and assisted to rig them; went down in forepeak and requested the carpenters to have sails, ropes and other gear taken from forepeak so as to tear up the platform and get at the leak; went on deck and called passengers and clew of Princess Royal to assist, they did so; we hauled one hawser on deck when Captain Mouat ordered us to stop; I went down to the engine room by his orders, and reported the state of the water; went to the fore peak and joined the boatswain and a man named Phillipson standing on the kelson with the water nearly to his knees; ordered the boatswain to collect all the buckets and put lanyards on to bale out; reported state of water in the hold to Captain Mouat, remarking at the same time that I believed the water was lodging in the fore hold and could not find its way aft to the pumps, knowing that the limber chains and holds were choked up and that the lining of the vessel was tight, and a strong bulkhead between the engine room and for-hold; Captain Mouat said it was non-sense and could not be: Captain Mouat sense and could not be; Captain Mouat ordered me to make hoses for main deck

Nervous Disorders. Nervous Disorders.

Whatis more fearful than a treaking down of the nervous system? To be excitable or nervous in a small degree is mest distressing, for where can a remedy be found? Here is one:—Drink but little wine, beer, or spirits, or far better, abstain intom them altogether; do not take coffee—weak tea is preferable; get ali the fresh air you can; take there or four of the Fills every night; eat plenty of solids, and avoid the use of slops. If these golden rules are followed, you will be happy in mind, strong in body, and forget you have any nerves. Mothers and Daughters

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT-Stomach HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT—Stomach and Kidneys. Between these two organs there exists a close and intimate relation which is demonstrated by the wasting which occurs in all diseases afflicting the kidneys. The disordered stomach is often the first index of renal irrequirity. Holloway's remedies used at that juncture would cut short many a serious and fatatak. They not with wonderful efficacy on every organ of secretion, but especially do they regulate the stomach, liver and kidneys, in restoring their healthy functions, and casting out any obstructions or inspurities. It is necessary for the ointment to be well rubbed into the small of the back twice daily, when it is absorbed and greatly augments the purifying and salutary influence of the Pills. Larger Circulation! Than any other paper, and is read by all classes

Holloway's Ointment.—Wounds, Scalds, Burns, and Irritating Sores.—The peculiarly mild, soothing, anti-inflammatory power exerted by this Ointment strongly recommends its use to all persons who have charge of children. Accidents will occur in the nursery in spite of the greatest caution and utmost vigilance. The scratch, the burn, or the scald, treated early with this Ointment, assumes no anary aspect, and never long tortues the little sufferer, whose very cry excites each bystander's compassion and pierces the parents heart. Every nurse should consider this invaluable Ointment an essential to a well appointed nursery. The Ointment is applicable to any ore, whatever its character. It conducts to health as sure as the compass points to the north. American, European and Provincial News, Mining and Local Intelligence. It has a Larger Circulation!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS—Palpitation, Shortness of Breath, Dropsy.—This last named disease is often preceded by irregular section of the heart, and difficult respiration which symptoms are always severe, and ever go from bad to worse, unless proper means of cure be resorted to. In Holloway's unrivalled Ointment and Pills' the dropsical patient will ever find succour; the present relief derived from the use of these remedies is marvellously quick, and perseverance in the steady application of this noble Ointment Invariably results in a lasting and satisfactory cure. The two medicines act with such energy on the circulation and absorbent system, that the dropsical fluid vanisher, and the sufferer finds all theopressive symptoms daily decline, till natural health returns. HOLLOWAY OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Fistu las, Piles, Excoriations, and Strictures, are speedily relieved and utilimately removed by applying this Ointment after fomentation with warm water. Persons suffering from these scourges of the human frame should arrest their progress at once, for its both insidious and rapid. Fistulas, if long allowed to go on unchecked, not only weaken the nervous system, but destroy life. The sooner these in:stimable remedies are used the more certain is success; yet none should despair, hopeless cases have often yielded, and the sufferer has been saved a painful death. In excoriations, a few applications of this healing Ointment effect a cure, while the Pills, conjointly used, are especially beneficial in relaxing and removing strictures, whatever their situation or duration.
